Local MIDWEST PICKS

The bee yards run from Warner to Frederick. During the summer the bees forage on plants in order to find nectar and pollen. While in flight the bees release an enzyme into the honey stomach, mixing with the nectar, thus, starting the transformation process from pure nectar to honey. This Apiary is based out of Aberdeen, SD.

Since 1882, Taylor's family has been steward of this South Dakota soil. Taylor and Cassandra Sumption manage every step of planting, farming, and harvesting. The Anthem Oats philosophy starts with preserving what we do for the next generation. That begins with healthy soil, robust sustainability practices and a regenerative farming approach to resource management.
